A MESSAGE FROM OUR PRESIDENT

Dick Pippen
Rpippen@comcast.net

Greetings Orchid Lovers—you know it's not uncommon for someone to miss a friend's birthday and send a belated birthday greeting but it's less common to misunderstand and send an early birthday greeting (I've got to get my hearing aids fixed 😊—I was pretty sure that Norm Dolder told me some time ago that his birthday, his 90th birthday, was in October.) Only after we had made preparations for a birthday celebration at our October NOS meeting did I realize his birthday is in December! On top of that I had to miss this early celebration (but thanks to Cheryle Daniel I did get a piece of the delicious carrot cake 😊); so Norm I want to wish you an EARLY HAPPY BIRTHDAY and I hope that you enjoyed your early birthday celebration along with 63 other people at our October meeting. Sometime ago RF Orchids registered a Vanda in Norm's honor, Vanda Norman Dolder. While I do not have one of these plants, I do have a photo, so I thought it only appropriate to post a picture of Norm's Vanda on this early auspicious occasion. (This plant belongs to Eileen Davison.)

I understand that not only did I miss Norm's celebration but that I missed a very interesting presentation from our featured speaker Art Chadwick of Chadwick Orchids. I am told that he reviewed the history of cattleyas and the preparation of 1st Lady orchids. (I also understand that he was a very entertaining speaker.)

Thanks to all of you who made suggestions for the theme for the NOS 2020 Orchid Show. There were over 60 suggestions submitted, so it was not an easy task for the Show Committee to choose a theme. However, they did persevere and came up with a very interesting choice. I know this has been announced and will also appear elsewhere in the Newsletter, but I just have to mention it here—and the theme for our 2020 NOS Orchid Show is-----Wild About Orchids!! Congratulations to Diane Glover for submitting the winning suggestion. She will receive a $50 "reward for her winning suggestion. We hope that she will spend it at the show 😊!!

Looking ahead to our November meeting we will have another very entertaining speaker, our own Jim Longwell, who will tell us about Tips And Tricks Of Growing Orchids. I understand that this is a very interesting and educational presentation. I hope that all of you will be able to be there. Until then keep your orchids happy.

Dick

NOVEMBER--FROM AOS "GROWING ORCHIDS" MONTH-BY-MONTH CHECKLIST

by Robert M. Scully Jr.

- Organize plants so that all are exposed to optimum light levels. Be wary of insects. Be vigilant & turn leaves to look for pests. Eradicate them quickly when they are found.

- Re-tie each cattleya to support the newly produced growths. Position cattleyas with the lead (newest growth) facing the direction of the principal light source. New growths of Cattleya skinneri may already have some dried sheaths; do not remove them.

- Observe emerging phalaenopsis inflorescences (casually referred to as spikes) between the lower leaves near the base of the plant. As these spikes push upward, carefully guide them out from the leaves; do this using a stake or even a straw because it will not take much to adjust the spike's direction. When the inflorescence is about 10-12" tall, insert a permanent stake. Tie the spike to it loosely for directional guidance & support. This same tie can be gradually moved up the stake (to about 12") as the spike lengthens. Always keep the string's point of contact with the spike at least 4" below the growing tip. Additional ties will likely be necessary as the spike elongates. Do not move the plant during the period of spike development; changing the plants orientation to itslight source will cause the spike to twist.

- Position vandas to receive maximum available illumination; hang them above cattleyas.

More Orchid Terms from AOS

- Clavate* – club shaped.
- Falcate* – sickle-shaped.
- Glabrous* – smooth.
- Lanceolate* – a narrow oval tapering to a point at both ends.
- Obovate* – egg-shaped with the wide end up.

An Orchid Vignette--A Couple of Neat Bepis

Contributed by Dick Pippen

Brassavola times Epidendrum—what an unlikely combination, but I am sure glad it works because I love the abbreviation of this genus—Bepi (for Brassoepidendrum). I just love to say Bepi!! And there are some interesting combinations. Right now I am especially interested in Bepi. Sylvia White—a combination of Brassavola nodosa x Epidendrum ciliare. Usually in Brassavola crosses Brassavola dominates, but not this time—Epidendrum comes through as you can see in the picture below. Photo left is Brassavola nodosa, photo center is Epidendrum ciliare and photo right is Bepi. Sylvia White.

Bepi Sylvia White has been around for awhile, and apparently quite unnoticed. It was created and registered by Jack Tarr of Kissimmee, FL in 1979. So far it has earned no awards nor has it been used as a parent in any crosses. To get an award a grex has "to be better than either parent" so I guess that "somewhere in between" doesn't count ☺. I got my plant from Ken & Judy Russ when they were featured speakers at an NOS meeting in January, 2015. My plant blooms at least once a year, usually in the summer. I have just repotted it into a plastic pot in a bark mix (bark, sponge rock, hydroton, and charcoal, and it just finished blooming in October!!).

Another of my favorite "Bepis" is Bepi. Pseudosa. Now, this one is somewhat different from Sylvia White. The flowers are about the same size, or slightly larger, but the the sepals and petals are a bright apple green, and the lip is yellow with no "frills!" This is a cross between Brassavola nodsoa and Epidendrum pseudoepidendrum (don't you just love these names!!). Epi. pseudoepidendrum (third picture right—borrowed from OrchidWiz because I do not have the species in my collection) is one of the reed epidendrums, thus lacking pseudobulbs, and that trait is passed on to this grex. Bepi Pseudosa was created and registered by Claude Simmons of Voo Doo Orchids, Naples Fl. in 1974. It has won one AOS award a long time ago (1978) but it has been used as a parent in seven crosses. I used to grow this plant in sphagnum, but recently have switched to a bark mix and plastic pot. It is a frequent bloomer. Both of these hybrids are "true Bepis" because the names of the genera of the parents has not been messed with –yet!

Education Update

Kit Kitchen-Maran
Education Chair and Past President

WHAT IS THAT FUNNY IMAGE OF AN ORCHID AT THE BOTTOM OF THE HOME PAGE OF THE NAPLES ORCHID SOCIETY'S WEBSITE?

It used to be yellow and now it's white and it doesn't pop out like it used to. But what does it mean? The 1% for Orchid Conservation and logo belong to the Orchid Conservation Coalition and it means that our orchid society has consistently committed to budget at least 1% of our annual budget for orchid conservation. No, we don't donate that amount to the Coalition, but the OCC just wants our board to agree to spend at least that amount on our local orchid conservation activities.

And that's what we do through our Intern Program. But we also do it by having our annual show and by talking about and demonstrating the Ghost Orchid-gami and other native Southwest orchids. When NOS buys the Ghost Orchid-gami from the North American Orchid Conservation Center, that's supporting orchid conservation. Several times a year we invite local presenters to talk about local wild orchids at our monthly meetings and that also contributes toward that greater than 1% for orchid conservation.

So that logo means that our society is actively supporting orchid conservation in many ways. I'm proud of that and hope you are too. Find out more about this subject by Googling orchid conservation. If you are lucky like me, you might also find that the US Fish and Wildlife Service has about a 23 page report on orchid conservation in the Florida Panther National Wildlife Refuge. It was written a while ago by one of Dr. Zettler's students at Illinois College. Couldn't get the web address, but you can find it if you look.
