A MESSAGE FROM OUR PRESIDENT

Dick Pippen
Rpippen@comcast.net

Greetings Orchid Lovers—I want to tell you about something clandestine—no, not a secret mask-less meeting—but the Clandestine Orchid (Bulbophyllum clandestinum). Ha ha—gottcha on that one. At the 2019 Redlands I was cautious about expanding my collection, but then Marilyn Moser found this "neat little orchid" and "talked me into it." The plant was a scrawny little thing and didn't appear to do much until just recently when it burst forth in bloom (and even in bloom it could be considered "a well-kept secret," but very nice since I am into "miniatures" these days), so I thought I would share it with you. Bulb. clandestinum is a native to SE Asia.

I hate to sound like a broken record, but Florida and the COVID-19 virus continue to have a positive relationship with no abatement in sight. Therefore, we (the Board of Directors) have decided to cancel our regular monthly meetings and the December Holiday Potluck ☹ for the rest of the year. Keep your fingers crossed that 2021 will be a better year. I do miss seeing all of you on the first Thursdays of each month and the beautiful plants that you bring in for our monthly plant table competition. In the meantime, we will continue to stay in touch through our monthly newsletter and occasional "electronic blasts" (both thanks to Veronica Catrombon). I guess that is all for this month. Stay tuned, stay healthy and keep your orchids happy. Dick

Dear NOS friends,

I didn't have a chance to inform many of you about our somewhat sudden change of circumstances, we sold our house here in Naples and moved back to the Tampa Bay area, specifically St. Pete. I will genuinely miss you all. I have learned so much from this group of exceptional orchid hobbyists. I especially want to thank our president Dr. Pippen for taking me under his wing and trusting me to help care for his collection, all the divisions he shared and mostly his knowledge and friendship.

Sincerely,

Cheryle Daniel

ORCHID TRIVIA

From AOS

While orchid growing for pleasure probably originated in the Orient, the hobby took root in the western world in 19th century Europe & later spread to America. During WWII thousands of orchid plants were sent from England to the US for safe keeping, dramatically increasing interest in both commercial & hobby growing. This coupled with the 1960's advent of cloning plants, brought the hobby within reach of thousands of orchid fanciers worldwide.

Charles Darwin wrote one of the first major works on orchids, The Origin of Species and many of its theories remain valid today.

SEPTEMBER--FROM AOS "GROWING ORCHIDS" MONTH-BY-MONTH CHECKLIST

by Robert M. Scully Jr.

This is Dendrobium phalaenopsis season. Long, arching sprays of flat, dark red-purple to white or pink saucer-like blossoms provide weeks of satisfaction. Nobile-type hybrids should continue to be maintained on a nitrogen-free fertilizer program. Water sparingly to keep the pseudobulbs from dehydrating.

Autumn is typically the end of the growing season for Catasetum & Cycnoches. Plants may produce flowers from pseudobulbs with leaves, or in some instances, from bulbs, that have already lost their leaves. Watch the undersides of the leaves to control spider mites, which seem to find these delicacies just as the foliage reaches its prime or plants are about to bloom. Support the basal racemes of catasetums as they emerge; and consider putting the plants on inverted pots to provide room for them to hang freely.

From Kris Morton –

It seems like most of the US is suffering from extreme heat (& humidity here in FL.) We've had days of afternoon rains then days of heat & no rain. I keep turning off my sprinkler system but then have to turn it back on when things start looking like straw. Some areas in Collier get more rain than others just hear thunder & it passes by. And we are already up to the "L" for tropical storms. Kyle was just a fish storm. We've been lucky – so far – but the peak is from the middle of August to the middle of October! I always enjoy reading the monthly update from Martin (shown below.) I think the east coast of Florida gets much more rain than we do though.

Stay safe & healthy everyone. Hope we can resume meetings in the new year.

FROM MARTIN MOTES AUGUST MONTHLY NEWSLETTER

This July began and ended on a dry note, but overall was exceptionally wet. This wet month, in a wet year, is not good news for our orchids. Even if one has been following the preventative spray program set forth in Florida Orchid Growing, this weather pattern demands extra vigilance. To be sure this year, one should follow the mandate of looking at each one of one's orchids every day. Quick developing diseases like black rot and bacterial rot must be absolutely nipped in the bud by early detection and isolation. Leaf spotting fungi though slower to develop are also best dealt with as soon as possible. Often, simply excising the diseased spot with a sterile knife or shears will resolve the problem and prevent any further spread of the disease. Best cultural practices too are essential when our plants are under greater disease pressure from excessive rain. First, every opportunity to dry plants "hard" by withholding water for as many days as possible to force any latent fungi to retreat to a spore stage from which they will be slow to emerge to renewed virulence should be taken. Second, social distancing, prevents the spread of plant disease as well. Be sure your plants are spaced apart sufficiently to allow good air movement and light to reach all parts of the plant. Old time Florida growers avowed one needed a cat to be a good grower; as a cat should be able to walk the benches without knocking plants over. Another very effective way to maximize light and air movement is by hanging plants. The higher off the ground the greater the air movement. This concept also governed the traditional construction of houses with an eye to hurricanes.

All of that rain, while providing some nitrogen, has mostly stripped away nutrients from our plants. Any opportunity which presents itself to water, should be used to apply liquid fertilizer, preferably the Michigan State formula or a comparable low phosphorus fertilizer with additional calcium and magnesium such as the widely available Peters Excell.

One blessing of the super abundant rain is that it has also washed away both thrips and mites which are problematic in hot dry conditions. On the other hand, snails and slugs have had silken highway to our plants. Remember, effective control of these pests is obtained by quite light (one or two pellets per square yard) but frequent (every two weeks) application of snail bait.

SINCE WE HAVE STARTED FEATURING AN ORCHID TYPE EACH MONTH WE HAVE CHOSEN CATTLEYAS FOR OUR SEPTEMBER NOS ISSUE.

HERE ARE SOME CULTURE TIPS FOR YOUR CATTLEYA:

LIGHT

Cattleya plants need a good amount of light to grow & flower well. A good guide to whether or not a plant is getting the proper light is the color of the foliage. It should be light olive green rather than dark lush green. The bulbs should develop straight & upright without the need for staking. If the plants produce weak growths with no sheath it is a sign of insufficient light.

TEMPERATURE

The optimum temperature range for best growth & flowering is 60-80 degrees Fahrenheit, however plants will stand down into the fifties & up as high as the hundreds with little or no damage if the humidity & watering are adjusted accordingly. A good rule to follow is raise the humidity with the higher temperatures & lower the humidity & watering with lower temperatures.

WATERING & HUMIDITY

Cattleya plants have evolved with water storage organs to withstand periodic drying in their native habitats. For this reason it is recommended that plants in cultivation be allowed to go nearly dry between watering. Mature plants generally need to be watered about once per week, smaller plants perhaps every 4-5 days during most of the year. In cooler temperatures plants may be left a little longer between watering. (When in doubt wait a day to water.) Always water thoroughly, allowing water to drain well through the drainage holes in the bottom of the pot.

April, 2020

Dear Orchid Friends,

Our Gala Centennial Celebration is just a year away! Our campaign to raise funds for conservation is well underway, we want to thank everyone who has contributed so far. Remember, the profits for this event go directly to our permanent Conservation Fund endowment, to help preserve threatened orchid habitat around the world. Protecting the habitat protects more than the orchids, too – all of the other plants and all of the critters will benefit!

There's still time to participate. Please review the sponsor opportunities flyer and send your contribution today!

The Gala is scheduled for April 10, 2021, at the fabulous, historic Biltmore Hotel in Coral Gables, Florida. Individual tickets to the banquet can be reserved, see the flyer for details.

That weekend will also include our Spring Members' and Trustees Meeting, with many activities and a fantastic auction as well. Proceeds from the auction also benefit the Conservation Fund endowment. The Biltmore Hotel has given us a very special room rate for this event. Use booking ID code 321 when you make your reservation. You can contact the hotel by phone, toll-free number (855) 311-6903 or on their website: https://www.biltmorehotel.com/

On behalf of the entire Centennial Committee, we want to thank you in advance for your support of the American Orchid Society. With your help our organization will continue to grow. Enclosed please find an information page about donor and sponsor opportunities. Please don't hesitate to contact me for additional information.

Education Update

Kit Kitchen-Maran
Education Chair and Past President

SURPRISE!!!!

I promised everybody a surprise in the June newsletter which I expected to reveal in the July newsletter, but the virus has delayed our usual mailings. I finally got my July issue of Orchids magazine late this week and hope you have yours, and so here it is…!!!

Surprise! There is a lengthy article by our friends (and newest NOS Life Member) Dr. Larry Zettler and Dr. Ernesto Mujica on pages 542-547 of the July 2020 Orchids magazine. The title is Cuban Treasures. If you are not a member of AOS so you receive this treasure of a magazine monthly, plus many other benefits, you should be. So, beg, borrow or join so you can read this account of how the collaboration of these two orchid specialists came about and what they have learned about Cuban and SW Florida Dendrophylax lindenii, or Ghost Orchids. And we, the Naples Orchid Society have helped with these discoveries!

Much of the data in both countries have been collected by Dr. Zettler's students from Illinois College who have been receiving several NOS internships annually since 2011. And Dr. Mujica has been given three NOS grants to help him come to the U.S to participate in data collection and student training at the Florida Panther National Wildlife Refuge, although he was not able to obtain a U.S. visa this year again.

If you read this story, you will remember being introduced at each July NOS meeting to many of these young people who have contributed to this groundbreaking research. Regrettably, our 2020 July meeting was cancelled, but our interns have still been out in the Refuge during July making new inroads in orchid research. Recently Dr. Zettler emailed me saying, "…they are getting great data down at the Refuge. It's been very dry there. Michael has successfully collected nectar from Ghost Orchids and even some droplets from the labellum." What a change from the last several years when water was chest high!

Our NOS contributions are noted in the last paragraph by Dr. Zettler thusly: "We are especially grateful to the Naples Orchid Society for their generous annual funding for Dr. Mujica and student interns at the Florida Panther NWR." And so, we are meeting our mission statement goals of providing research and education about our SW Florida native orchid species and we all should be very proud of their and our achievements. --Kit

An Orchid Vignette— Hawaii Stars and Marg Putman
[published Sept 2011 NOS Newsletter, updated for September 2020 Newsletter]

Contributed by Dick Pippen

I'm a sucker for white flowers with red, magenta, purple or blue lips (especially if Brassavola nodosa is somewhere in the background), and here are two such orchids. Brassolaeliocattleya (Blc.) Hawaii Stars and Blc. Marg Putman. Now these are not the big spectacular white and purple flowers like Lc. Mildred Rives or Lc. Longriver Compton, but more on the subtle side, and they bloom more than once a year.

Blc. Hawaii Stars is a cross between Brassavola Little Stars and Lc. Memoria Robert Strait (two of my favorite orchids). The color pattern on this orchid is interesting given the colors of the parents. B. Little Stars (B. nodosa x B. subulifolia) produces small "nodosa-like" flowers that are pale green-white. Lc. Mem. Robert Strait (C. walkeriana x Lc. Wayndora) produces elegant four-inch flowers that are white with magenta to purple flares and an intense magenta lip. Hawaii Stars inherited its broader sepals and petals and colored lip from the Mem. Robert Strait parent.

This is a fairly new orchid, created by Hawaii Hybrids of Hilo, and registered in 2006 (according to OrchidWiz). Now this is interesting since Alan Black, of Virginia, received an HCC/AOS for the cultivar 'Joy Black,' in November 2005 and that would have been before the grex was officially registered. The cultivar I have, 'Paradise' earned an HCC/AOS in 2010.

Blc. Hawaii Stars is medium-sized, the pseudobulbs and their single leaves together are less than a foot long. The spikes usually extend slightly above the leaves and each bears 3-5 flowers that are 3-3.5-inch across. After open a few days a delightful daytime fragrance develops that, to me, smells like "lemon-flavored roses." This plant blooms dependably in September, but sometimes also in March. The flowers stay open for about a month, and as they age the purple color in the lip fades to a much lighter shade.

Somewhat similar in appearance is Blc. Marg Putman, a cross between C. intermedia and Bl. Morning Glory, and it looks more like what you would expect from its two parents. The 3-3.5-inch flowers are borne 3-5 on a spike and it flowers at least twice a year, in the Spring and in the Fall; the flowers lasting about a month. This grex is also "newish," created by H & R Nurseries of Hawaii and registered in 2004 by Renee and Marvin Gerber of Houston, TX. It has earned three HCCs and four AM/AOS awards, but has not been used as a parent in any registered crosses.

As with many orchids, the names are now different, and both are now Bc. (Brassocattleya); still worthy additions to your collection.

Specializing in fresh seafood, fine steaks and chops served in a spectacular beachfront setting, the restaurant quickly became a favorite "secret spot" for local Neapolitans. The secret has been out for some time now, and the restaurant consistently has been voted the area's top restaurant for waterfront dining.
